MORNING TIME

Choose one weekend morning this month to take your children out and treat them to their favorite breakfast. Use this time to talk about adventures you have been on together and how God's presence was felt in those moments. Remind them that God created them for an adventure!

DRIVE TIME

Use your driving time this week to challenge your child in a positive way. Encourage them to look for an opportunity to love someone in a big way. Remind them of the unique gifts you see in them and discuss how they can use these gifts to spread love. When they get home, be sure to ask them how it went!

MEAL TIME

Ask a kid:

What is something you can do that no one else in your family can do?

Ask a parent:

What's your hidden talent?

BED TIME

Read 1 Samuel 17. Take a minute to think about someone you wish you could be like. There's nothing wrong with looking up to someone, but you never need to try to be someone else or envy them for something they can do that you can't. God created you and there is no one in the whole world designed exactly like you. Ask God to show you how He has made you to be you.

PARENT TIME

Just as God created our children in His own unique way, He too created us as parents. Our children pick up on more than we realize, so it's important we don't lose sight of our own unique gifts. The more we demonstrate love for others the more our children will feel confident to put their own gifts to work. God created us to love others, so find a way this month to let His light shine through you.
